TO YOU

When a candle burns
With a tall, slender flame
That is glowing bright
and always steady,
It is surrounded by an
Atmosphere of Honour and Pride
Like those at a graduation dinner
Given by the parents.

When a candle burns
With a small, soft flame
That has tender light
and swaying motion,
It is surrounded by an Atmosphere of Sadness and Grief.
Like the ones burning at a
Young soldier's inevitable funeral.

When a candle burns
With a biting, fierce flame
That flickers wickedly
and never ceases laughing,
It is surrounded by an Atmosphere of Hate and Evil.
Like those that light the rooms
In the caverns of hell.

But when a candle burns
With such a soft luminous flame
That it brightens your very soul
to its deepest depth,
It is surrounded by an Atmosphere of only Love.
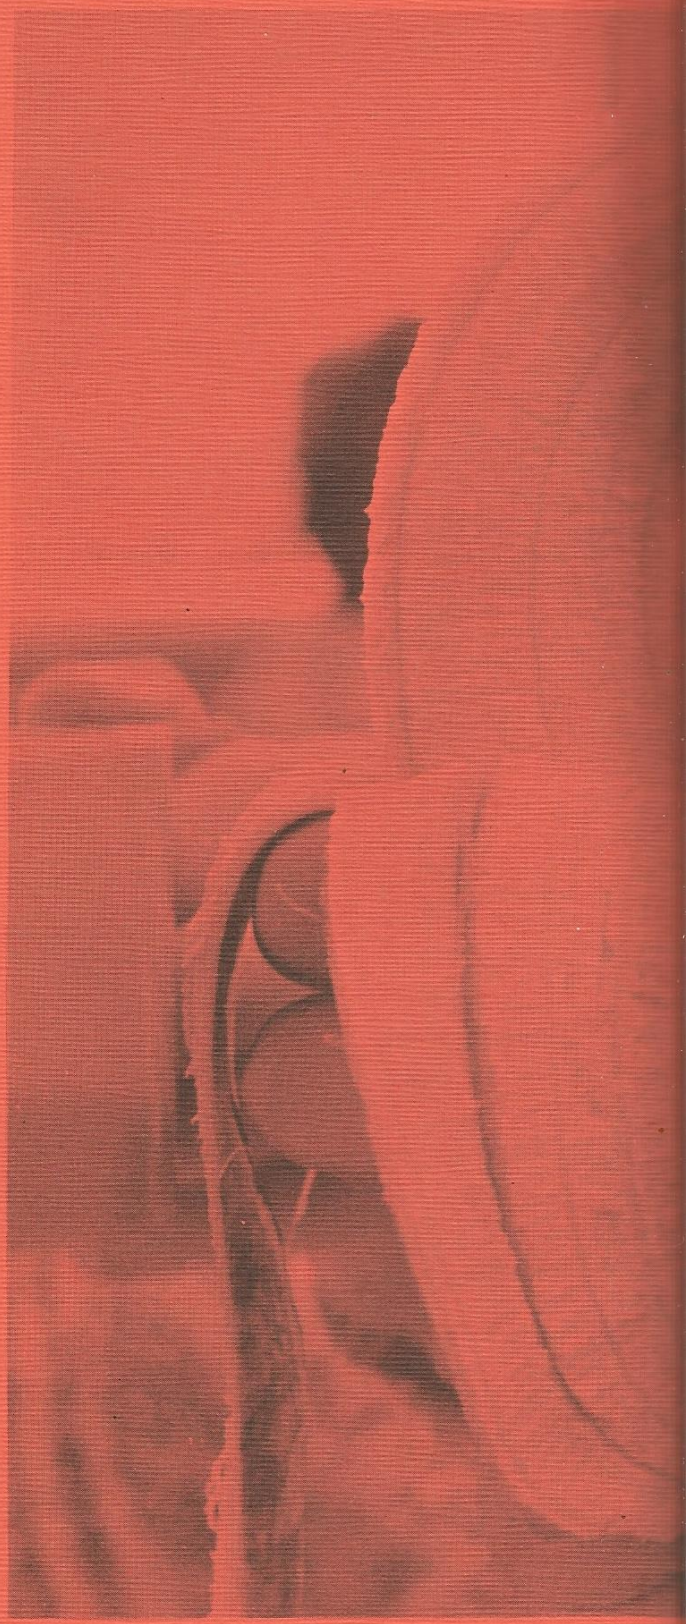
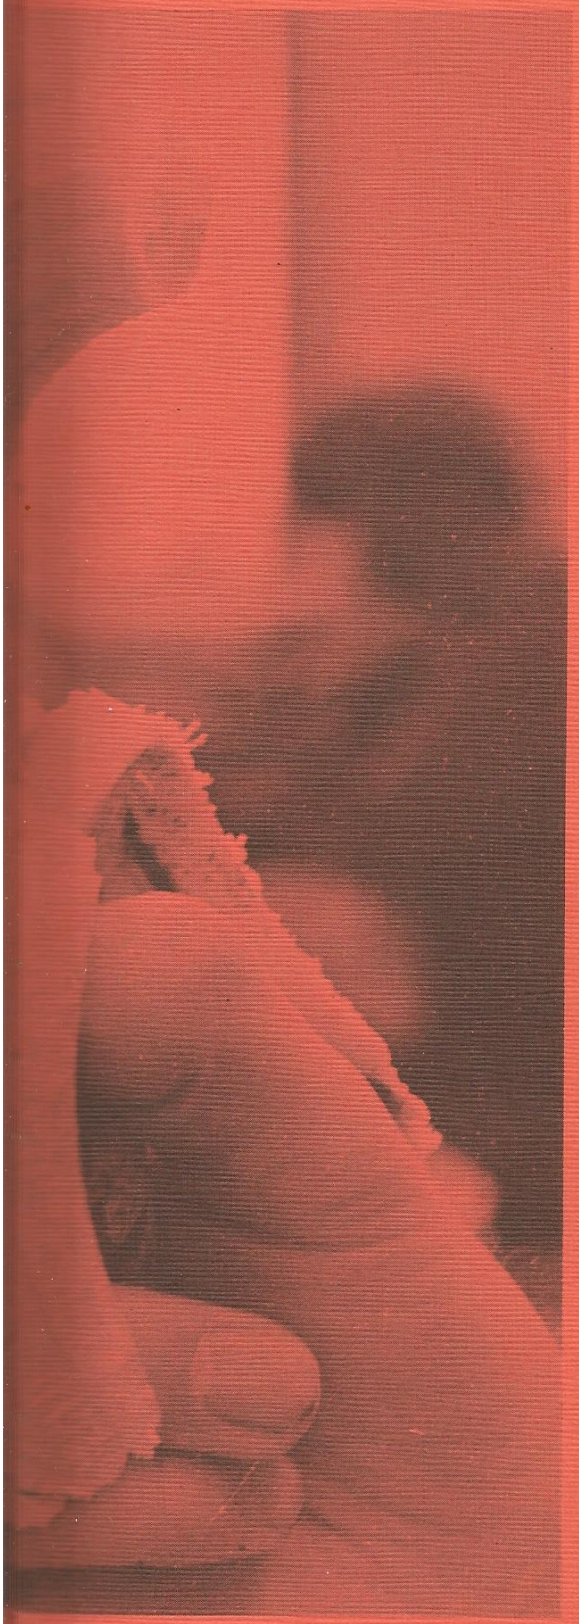
Like those that I light
For you, each night of each day.

RABBIT.





O wondrous wondrous butterfly
Flitting through the azure sky
What little thoughts what little schemes
Are conjured in Butterfly dreams
And when a misty monarch you chance to meet
Do you get cold butterfly feet?
And when she kisses you till you think you'll die
Tell me, do you get stomachs in your butterfly?

LORELIE JACOBER

The sun shines
Yet the blind man cries.

The music plays
But does the deaf man hear?

Love is here
So why the loneliness?

Man is kind,
So why the wars?

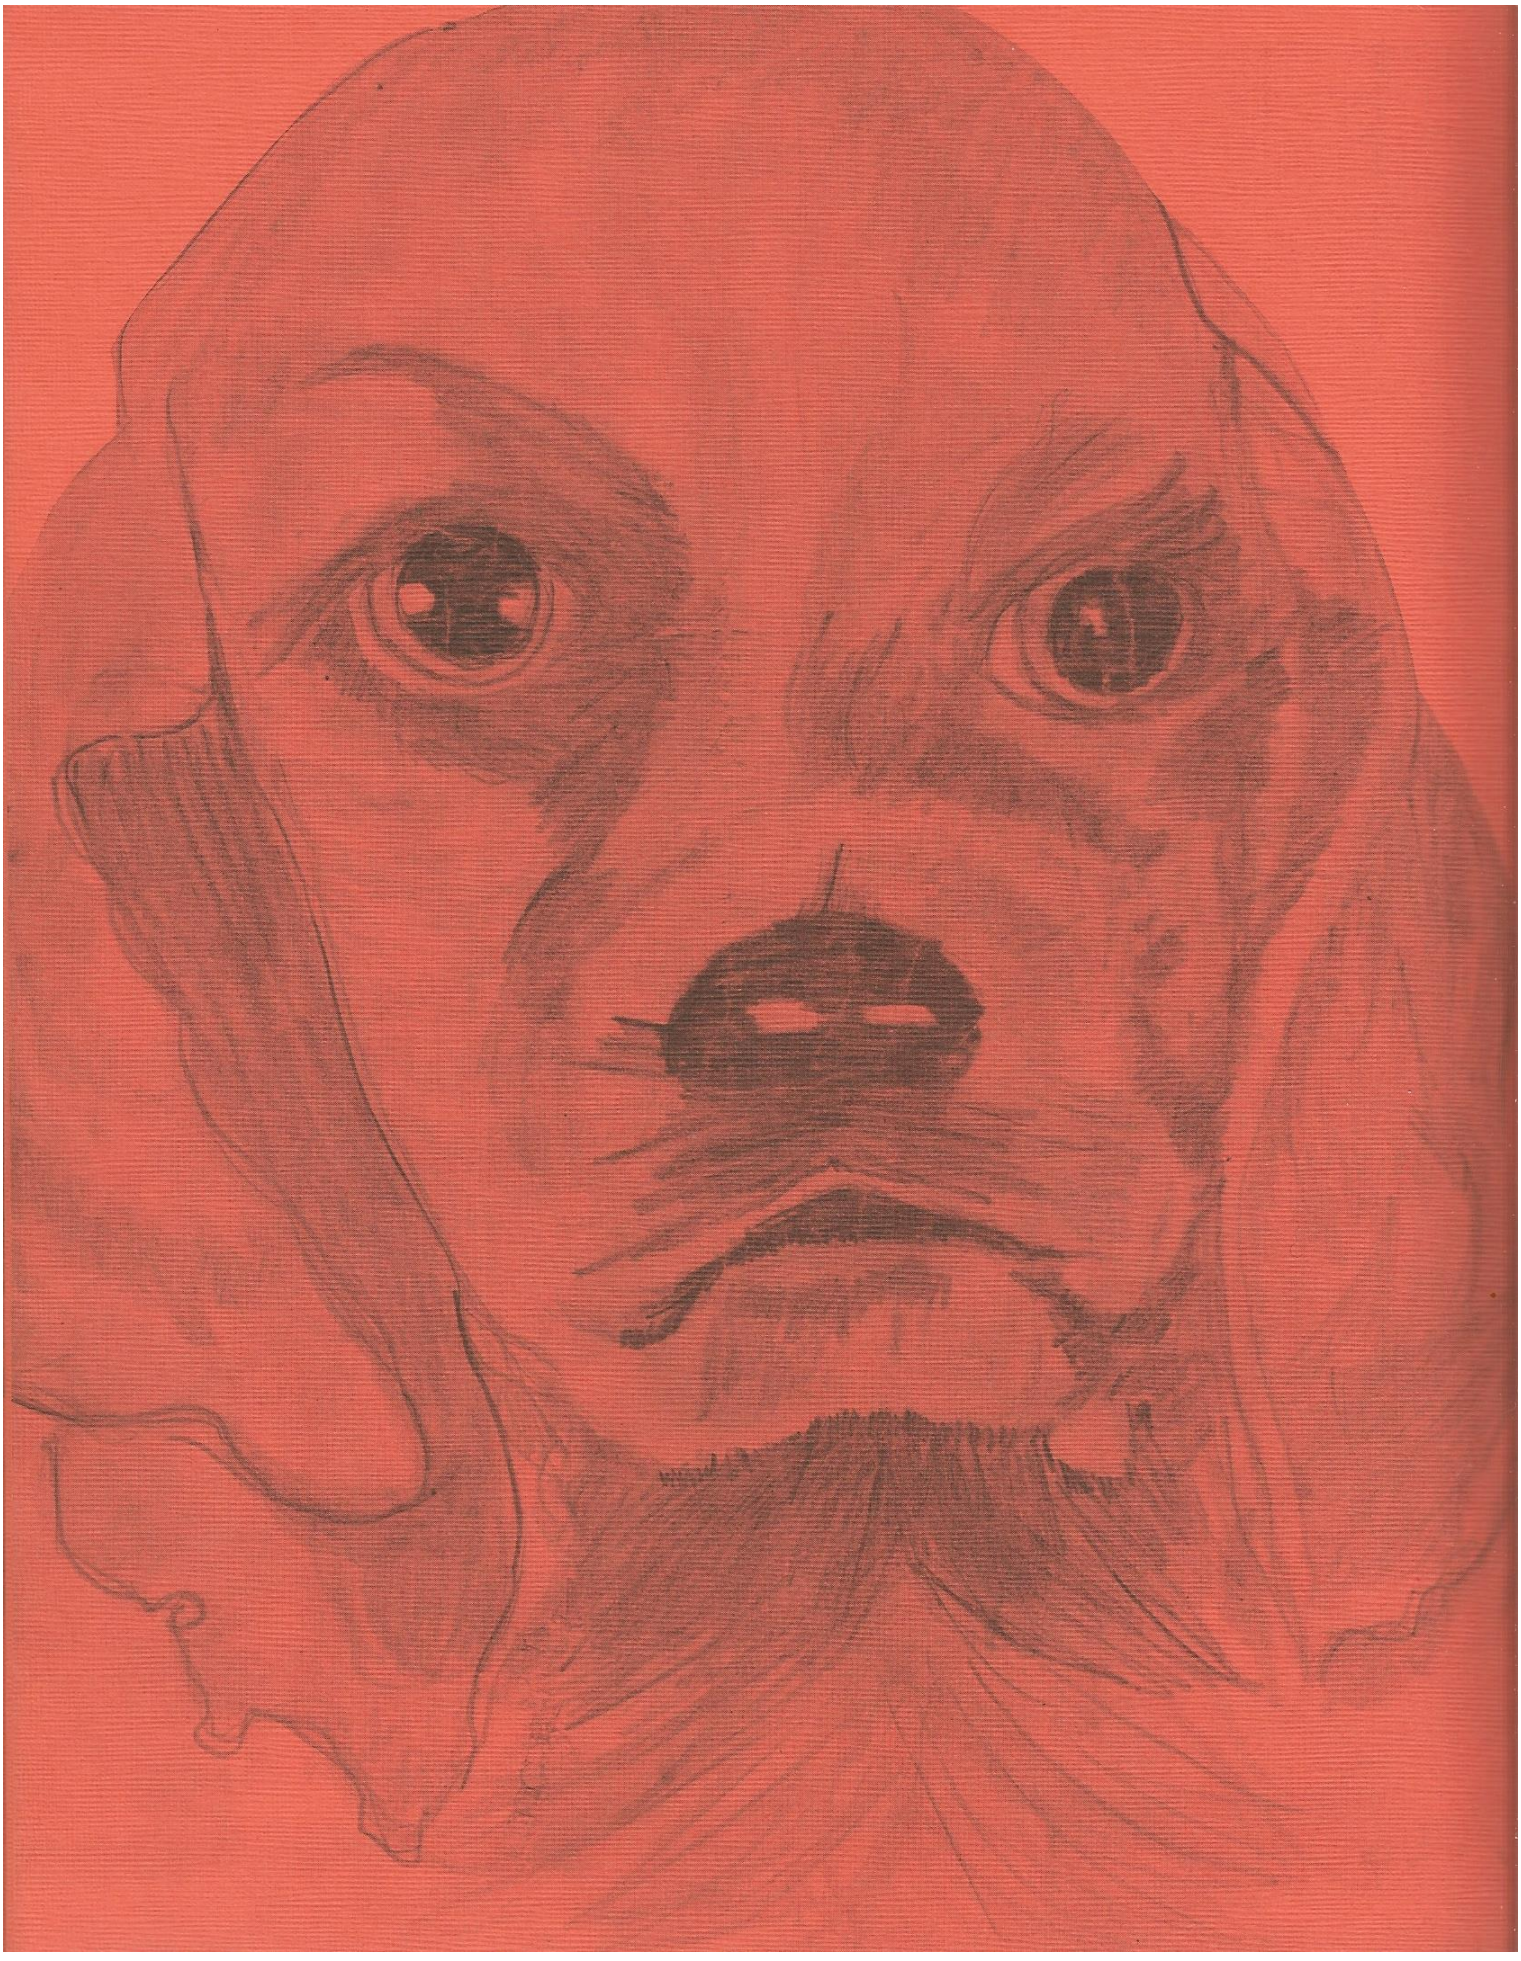
Why?
God won't tell.

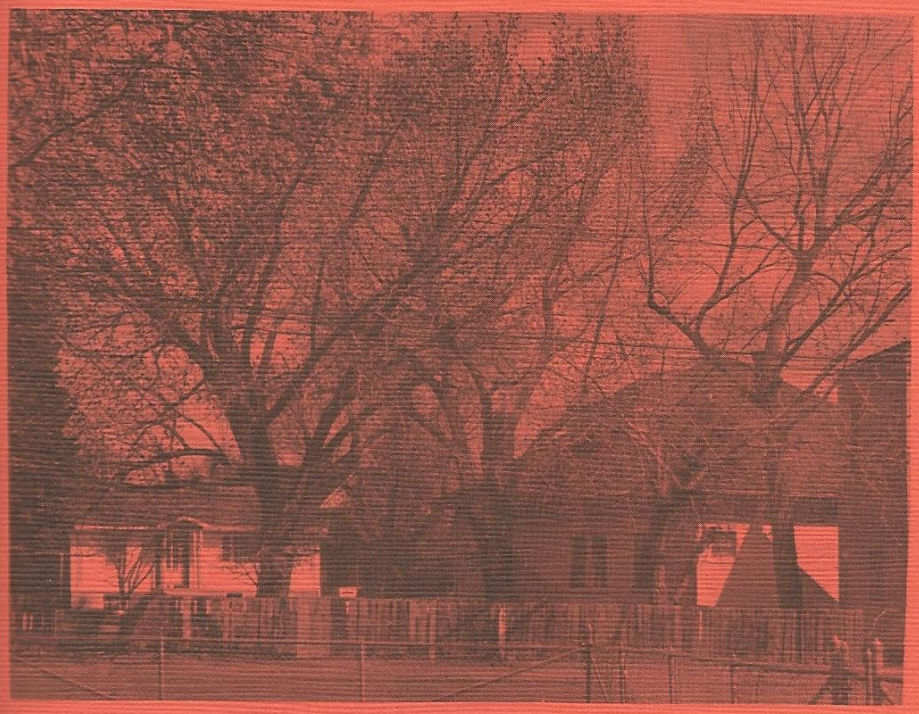
HANNELORE GRUNING

THE APPLE

I've never seen a covering as red as this on anyone before or anybody's insides as juicy as this either. The only thing I don't like is that it is hard hearted. The heart is so small and so brown and so terribly HARD!!! It's treated so harshly. Beaten by the wind. Made to suffer through those awful dust storms. And the worst of all is to have to stand all those biting creatures on top chewing at it's covering all the time and having no means to defend itself at all. I'd hate to be an apple

Lorelie Jacober





Here am I, say you. Like an empty cardboard box leaning quietly against another.
Like a bleached electric pole cutting across the blank face of a deserted sky.

Beside you sit two sidetracked boxcars, while overhead
a catwalk hangs as a portrait in profile or outline against the morning sky.

Your void and shadowing life is as a deserted factory, earlier humming with enchanted ideas. . .
But all is quiet, movement and sound have fled so enters your existence in adulthood.
All your childhood dreams left behind,
to rot, as does a burning corpse.
Loose. . .loose as a tomcat let your mind and heart prey on for the lost ideas you once had as a young girl.

Be not one of the midnight dim summer stars but that most to shine with a succession of brillant gleams and flashes north star in all the heavens

Not these two sidetracked boxcars but a passionately mad locomotive, on course to the stars.

Certainly not that bleached electric pole but cutting across the silken face of a starlit midsummer evening, be Thor, the god of lightning.

I . . . must have my vision come true, or fail trying.

FAYE BELZBERG

FROM 2 TO 1

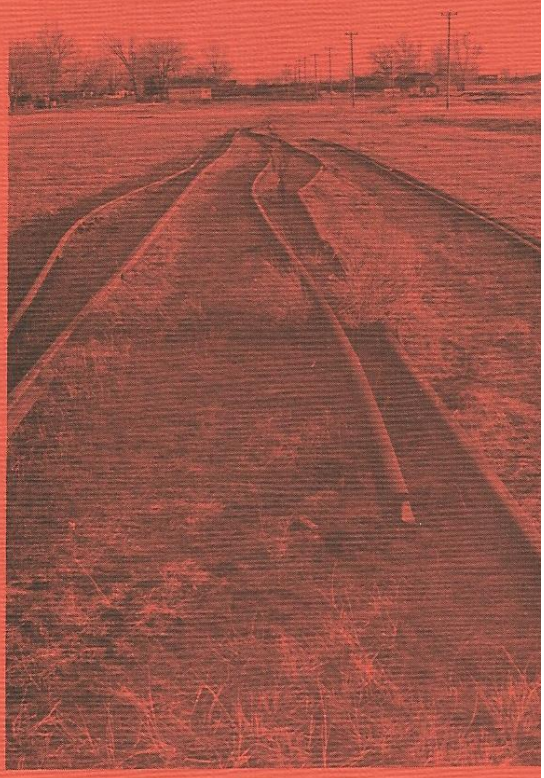
Why do people have worry
When they have everything they need?
Why do people put us down
Aren't they saftisied with their greed?

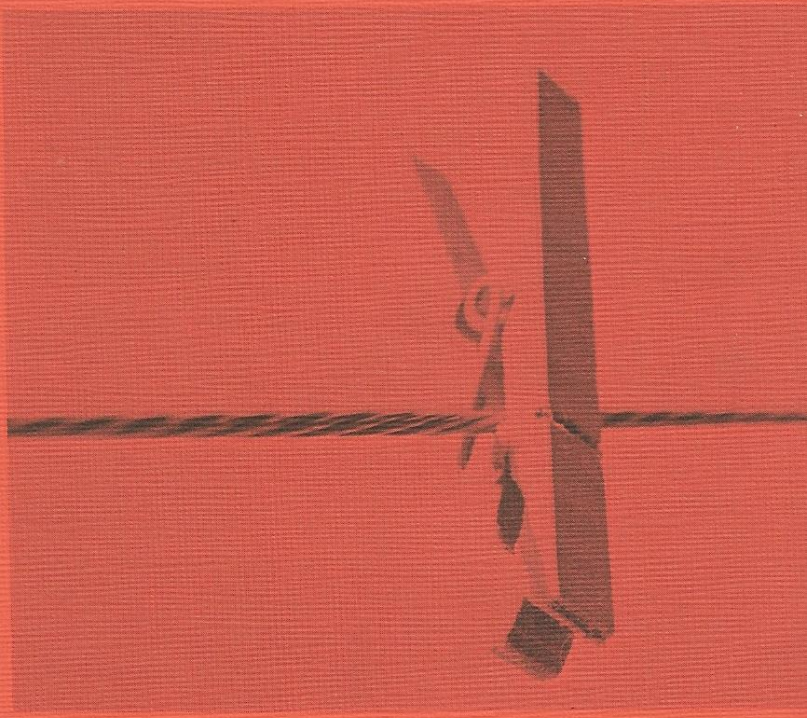
You'll recognize that type right away
Walking down the road.
You'll recognize us with our brothers and sisters
Sharing the heavy load.

There are two types of people
On the face of the earth.
They are number one,
They are so involved in their stock reports.
I am surprised that they see us come.

The second group, which I am in
Have peace and love in our mind
And it's us taking over when number one leaves.
I suggest you treat us kind!

SUSAN WERNER





We all recognize that young adults have a right to the best education our System can afford, but we must not forget that the rights and privileges we now enjoy have been won at a great price. Past generations have striven, saved, and even deprived themselves in order that we might have the advantages that are ours today. They have handed down to us a wealth of literature, science, art, music and liberty, for all of which we owe something to future generations.

In accepting these privileges as our right, we must remember that rights carry responsibilities. We should have the deep-rooted conviction that we owe a duty both to the community in which we live and to society at large. This implies an obligation to respect the opinions of others and to work in unison with our fellows for the good of our school, our city, our province and our Dominion.

Principal's Message

The shortest biographical statement of Man that I can make is: "He is born, he suffers, he dies". You were born into a society which recognizes the rights and privileges of the free and important individual. Each of you has been exercising one of your rights during this past year by attending Medicine Hat High School. To the extent that you have worked, to that extent you have used your privilege.

As the work was done you came to a realization of suffering. To suffer is to turn to the books instead of to a distracting pleasure, be it a movie or T.V., date or hot rod. To suffer is to live for the right reason, the life of a well-rounded student.

Maybe you have died a little in the process of work. To die is to not do what everybody seems to be doing; to die is to not follow feelings which pull us counter-clockwise. That's the wisdom possessed by the student who sets up a timetable and follows it the majority of the time. If you have been dying a little, you know that as you have died, you have begun to live fully, for the mind has broadened and you have thought many thoughts.

To have survived this past year is not enough. Only to the extent that you have lived, suffered and died, HAVE YOU BEEN SUCCESSFUL???

President's Message

What can a person say about an experience that's priceless? The time you spend in high school is just that experience. Here a person molds his ideas and expressions for years to come. Be thankful you have had the opportunity to develop your ways.

M.H.H.S. in the past year has had its good times and its bad times, but what can people expect from a school with so many personalties and ideas. Your school has gained many a proud moment in the past ten months, so why not try and keep it that way. M.H.H.S is your school, be proud of it.

Next year I hope the students uphold the pride in M.H.H.S The school is what you make it.

Lastly, I would like to thank all of the students for making 71/72 a year to remember. Thank you for giving me a new outlook on life. Thank you so much. Next time I see you say Hi, that's a start to friendship.

To those Graduating:
Have faith in yourself, you have another life to lead.

GOOD LUCK Grads.
Best wishes to Mr. Lucotch.

To Mr. Armstrong.
You're the man behind the scenes and without you things couldn't happen. Thanks Mr. Armstrong. All the students and I have respected your patience and your reliance. Thank you again.

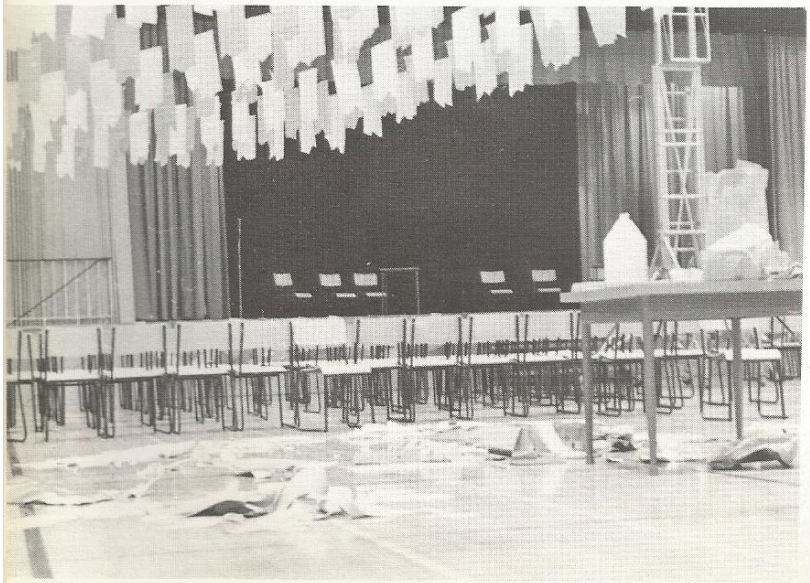
GOD SAVE THE QUEEN



Valedictory Address

People in my position, valedictorians of years and generations past, have long said, in one form or another, that it is today's youth who have the power of change in their hands. "We can make the world a beautiful place in which to live." they say. Why is it then, that generation after generation has grown old with the same idealism and left an imperfect world to their descendents? Idealism will only take you so far. It's a good place to start, but in the end dreams and ambitions can only be seen and fulfilled by taking a good long look at reality--and most of us need glasses.

How many of you parents here tonight feel that you have helped to change the world? How many of you graduates feel you ever will? Perhaps people have been trying to change it in the wrong way. A noted philosopher, Bronson Alcott, is quoted as saying, "The chaos about thee, is but the confusion within thee." I think this statement gives us a clue, for if we can obtain peace and happiness within ourselves, we will have come a long way in achieving the same for our world. But how can we obtain this harmony? Perhaps what we need is a guideline, something to refer to when we become confused and frustrated. Up to this point, our parents and teachers have fulfilled this need and fulfilled it well for if they hadn't, we wouldn't be here tonight and for this, we thank them. But we require more--what we need now is what the Desiderata has to offer--an inner peace that will assert itself in our day to day lives.

Though the Desiderata was written by an unknown, he was a man who, through his deeper insight, expressed the simple truths about life. Some say that it has been quoted too many times, sung too often. But why not, because for once a little truth and common sense has crept into our lives. Perhaps what people have needed is a starting point, a place to begin the change, and a good place is within yourself, for in the words of Cameron J. Stuart, "The life I am trying to grasp, is the me that is trying to grasp it."

A change for the better in each one of us, is the way to change the world.

DESIDERATA

EN AVANT MHHS

MAY 5, 1972

Though I have tried to convey the feeling behind Desiderata to you, it must be experienced to be fully understood.

Go placidly amidst the noise and haste and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story--Avoid loud and aggressive persons, they are vexations to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain and bitter, for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself. Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans--keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time--Exercise caution in your business affairs for the world is full of trickery, but let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals; and everywhere life is full of heroism--Be yourself. Especially, do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love for in the face of all ardidity and disenchantment it is perennial as the grass-- Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things. of youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune, but do not distress yourself with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness--Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should--Therefore, be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be, and whatever your labors and aspirations in the noisy confusion of life, keep peace with your soul--with all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be careful, strive to be happy!

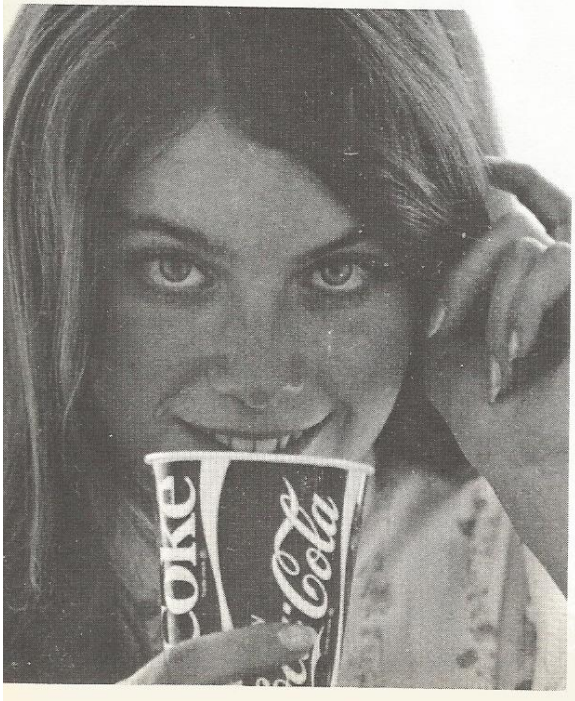
things go better with Coke

DRINK Coca-Cola



First a look to the future.
Generations still to be born.
Fresh, startlingly different.
New ideas, new concepts,
new beliefs.

The Coca-Cola Company recognizes that the spirit of the future is but a wisp in the wind. Those who grasp it firmly today will be carried into the marketplace of tomorrow.

A whole new philosophy of environmental living translated into dramatic colors, bold shapes, dynamic relationships of form and substance. Some beyond our comprehension today.

Sincere Best Wishes,
